DETAILED ACTION

Applicants' response of 9/25/02 has been considered with the following results.

Specification

The amendment to the title of the invention is greatly appreciated. Unfortunately the focus of the NEW CLAIMED LIMITATIONS centers on the particular normalized detector size. The examiner recommends that applicants' further improve upon the submitted title by including such phraseology. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 2653

1. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hayashi et al with the acknowledged "normalized" methodology in the "STANDARD DVD BOOK".

The examiner interprets claim 1 as an apparatus using the methodology described in the acknowledged "standard DVD book" in order to determine the size of his photodetectors.

Hence, the examiner concludes applicants have not invented the methodology, but rather hardware, which relies upon such, accepted methodology to limit the size of the detectors.

The Hayashi et al document describes in this environment a minimum size of light spots, which fall within the range claimed.

It would have been obvious to modify the base system of Hayashi et al with the accepted methodology and provide for appropriately sized photodetectors. Those skilled in the art would certainly rely upon accepted methodologies to impact upon their engineering of the individual elements/photodetectors.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

2. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the art as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Kasami et al.

The particular NA is not found in the base reference, nevertheless the use of such NA s in this environment is taught by the Kasami et al reference.

It would have been obvious to modify the reference of Hayashi et al with the above teaching from Kasami et al; motivation is to increase the recording density of the record medium as taught by Kasami et al.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

A copy of the acknowledged DVD book is respectfully requested in order to complete the search report.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
